POLICE HAVE DISmissed it, Courtney Love has threatened to sue over it, but Kurt Cobain murder theories thrive on the Web. At http://miavx1.acs.muohio.edu/~carmanca, detective Tom Grant lays out his version of events. Primary suspect: Love herself. Oh well, whatever, never mind.

Murder? Smells like b.s.

Two years after the death of Kurt Cobain, a number of people believe the leader of Nirvana did not commit suicide and that his death was the result of foul play. You'll be shocked by what they have to say.

KURT COBAIN FROM "HE SEEMED SO HAPPY"

Who killed Kurt

TOM GRANT
PRIVATE EYE OF THE STORM

Beverly Hills, CA private investigator Tom Grant, a 49-year-old grandfather of seven and seven-year veteran of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, hardly falls into the demographic of the average Nirvana fan. So it's not surprising that when, on Easter Sunday, April 9, 1994, Courtney Love hired him to track down her husband Kurt Cobain's missing credit card, he initially thought little of the assignment. "I knew vaguely who Nirvana was," says the PI.

Grant was about to embark on a road of deception, intrigue and cover-ups that would lead him, nine months later, to a stunning conclusion regarding the death of Kurt Cobain, who was found dead in Seattle on April 8, 1994.

Grant's first clues that all was not right came during his meeting with Love later that day at the Peninsula Hotel in Beverly Hills, where she was staying. "She told me on the phone that someone was using her husband's credit card and she wanted to find out who it was," recounts Grant. "Then, when I met her at the hotel, she changed that immediately to, 'It's not someone else using his card, it's him, and I'm trying to locate him.' It just kind of spread from there."

Cobain, at the time, was AWOL from the Exodus Recovery Center, a drug-rehab clinic in nearby Marina del Rey. Working on Love's suggestion that Kurt "may have gone to Seattle," Grant subcontracted local investigators to do surveillance on Cobain's known haunts in Seattle. What Love neglected to tell Grant was that Michael "Cali" DeWit, the couple's nanny, had seen Cobain at their house on Lake Washington Boulevard on April [illegible] day before she hired the PI. Given Grant's assertion that Cobain died "late Sunday morning [April 3] or early Monday morning [April 4]," this omission may have caused a fatal—and possibly deliberate—delay in his investigation.

Grant arrived in Seattle at 11:30 PM on Wednesday, April 6. Dylan Carlson, a close friend of Cobain's who from all reports was the singer's drug-buddy, took him to the house. It was raining as they searched the house at 2:15 AM on April 7. But the garage/greenhouse a stone's throw away from the main house remained unexplored. Carlson failed to direct him to the greenhouse, later telling Grant that "it's just a dirty little room."

The greenhouse was a 19-foot by 23-foot room above the garage. The scene that unfolded there on the morning of April 8, when an electrician noticed a body lying on the floor at 8:30 AM, could hardly be viewed as arbitrary to the outside world. Cobain, who had a predisposition toward suicide (with perhaps one attempt already under his belt—the overdose on Rohypnol in Rome on March 4, 1994), was discovered with a Remington M-11 20-gauge shotgun resting on his chest and blood exuding from his ear. A single charge had entered through the roof of his mouth and lodged in his head. A kiss-off note lay nearby. A neater example of suicide would be hard to find. It he knew and didn't know about the Kurt case.

Disregarding the Seattle police department's report in the Seattle Times on May 11 that stated "there's been no foul play—just an early death that no one could explain," Grant reached his own dramatic conclusion eight months later: "A conspiracy resulted in the murder of Kurt Cobain."

The scenario, according to Grant, goes like this: Kurt was planning to divorce Courtney and simultaneously leave the music business. He had spoken to Rosemary Carroll, one of the couple's attorneys, about having Courtney taken out of his will. The note found with Cobain's body, Grant asserts, was a farewell to his fans, not a suicide note. "It was not addressed to Frances [his daughter] and Courtney, as the police report claims, and it doesn't say anything in there about suicide," says Grant.

Of course, [illegible] would have resulted in [illegible] losses. His decision not to headline [illegible] '94 tour had already cost [illegible] vicinity of $9.5 million. And [illegible] generous settlement, a divorce [illegible] have led to a further depletion of Courtney's coffers, certainly amounting to less than what she stood to gain from inheriting the Cobain fortune. With that kind of money at stake, Grant contends, the situation was ripe for murder appeared that Kurt Cobain had finally put an [illegible] his miserable, drug-plagued, multiplat[illegible]-life.

Exactly a month later, on May 8, Grant [illegible] a letter to Love, who he was still work[illegible] expressing his doubts about the gen[illegible]ed suicide theory. "I'm sure you know that my investigation has been somewhat more active than you might have been aware of...I consider the circumstances surrounding your husband's death to be highly suspicious. I've decided to continue working on this case until I see its conclusion, without additional charges."

Amazingly, Love continued to employ Grant for the next seven months, during which time he was given unrelated and largely insubstantial matters to look after. Grant believes she kept him on the payroll so she could keep tabs on him and periodically "pick his brain" for what

"There's no doubt in my mind that Kurt was [illegible] there in the greenhouse with a shotgun," explains Grant. "That was like a little lookout tower for him over his whole property, and I do firmly believe that he was in fear of his life. He was going to be flying out of Seattle, probably within hours, certainly within the next day or two.

"So he was up there, and whoever came in there with him was probably doing drugs with him until they got him loaded. He had three times the lethal dose of heroin in his system [at the time of his death]. Now that doesn't necessarily mean he would have died from that dose, but it certainly would've put him out. It's highly unlikely that he would shoot himself up in both arms, put the needle away in his little kit and then have the mental capacity to sit there and manipulate this shotgun and shoot himself. If he wasn't unconscious, he was at least to the point where he wasn't aware of what was going on. Anybody could have done anything with him."

Grant says he contacted the Seattle police immediately after the body's discovery; not surprisingly, he was received coolly. "There's a body there and a shotgun and what they think is a suicide note, so it's real easy to jump to that conclusion," he says. "It also makes their job a lot easier. In fact, they were upset that the homicide units even had to go out there. The homicide guys told me, 'You know, we wouldn't even be on this thing if it wasn't Kurt Cobain.' The stuff they fed the press about how they investigated it as a possible homicide is total bullshit. This was never looked at as a possible homicide."

He attributes their reluctance to investigate further to both human nature and manipulation on Love's part. The missing-persons report phoned in by Love (for which she claimed to be Cobain's mother, Wendy O'Connor) was ambiguously worded to suggest that Cobain had purchased the shotgun after he fled the rehab center (although a receipt found at the scene confirms that he bought the shotgun before he left Seattle for Marina del Rey). And she continually stressed to the police, the public and anyone else who would listen that her husband was suicidal.

Grant's concern about the "copycat" suicides committed by misinformed Nirvana fans spurred him to go public with his claims on December 13, 1994, in an interview on the "The Gil Gross Show," which is syndicated to 175 stations by CBS Radio. Love's lawyers learned of Grant's scheduled appearance when Gross promoted the interview on the show a few days before it took place. "They called and warned us that we better not do it," says the show's producer, Greg Cockrell. "They made clear there would be legal action. Gil said, 'Go ahead, we're doing it anyway.'"

Except for requesting a tape of the show, Gross never heard back from Camp Courtney. Her lawyers, however, did succeed in gaining a public apology from "The Tom Leykis Show," a radio program syndicated by Westwood One Entertainment to 116 stations, after they ran an interview with Grant on January 5, 1995.

COURTNEY AND KURT SMILED FOR THE CAMERAS AT THE 1993 MTV AWARDS.

Love's attorneys also filed a complaint with the California Department of Consumer Affairs in an attempt to revoke Grant's investigator's license. Grant recently applied for and received a renewal of it.

"They are making an all-out effort to scare everybody away," says Grant. "Of course, they're blowing smoke. Anything they would do would just bring more attention to the case, and that's exactly what they want to avoid."

Conversely, that's exactly what Grant is trying to encourage. Though he's been accused of being a profit-motivated publicity-monger, Grant says his aim is true. He continues to compile information, hoping to build a strong enough argument to compel the Seattle police to reopen the case. "They need to answer a lot of questions," he challenges. "But they won't unless they're under enough pressure. Until we get some acknowledgment of the facts and the details in the press—the inconsistencies, the misinformation—there's nothing that can be done. We can't get past first base."

When that happens, "Additional information will be revealed that will lead the investigators down a path of discovery," promises the PI, "and this house of cards will fall."

EL DUCE

GUNMAN FOR HIRE?

Watching El Duce perform with his band, the Mentors, Hollywood's kings of porn-metal, certain images come immediately to mind. As the stocky lead singer growls his way through salty tales of rape, revenge and general debauchery, shirtless and wearing his trademark black hood, he resembles a medieval executioner. To make the picture complete, all he needs is a headsman's ax.

The resemblance apparently did not go unnoticed by Courtney Love, who met El Duce in the late '80s through Hole's original drummer, Carolyn Rue (who was going out with the Mentors' [illegible] guitarist, Sickie [illegible]). According to [illegible], Love showed up at the Rock Shop, a Hollywood record store at 1644 Wilcox Ave., a few days before New Year's Eve in 1993 at approximately 8:30 PM. As El Duce waited outside for a friend, a limousine transporting Love pulled up in front of the store. Love then allegedly made El Duce an offer he couldn't refuse.

"El, I really need a big favor of you," she said. "My old man's been a real asshole lately. I need you to blow his fucking head off."

"Are you serious?" El Duce asked.

"Yeah, I'll give you fifty thousand dollars to blow his fucking head off," Love confirmed.

"I'm serious if you are," El Duce said. "I wasn't really sure she was serious. And then she said, 'Where can I reach you?' At the time I didn't have a phone, but I get my messages at the Rock Shop, so I said, 'You can reach me here.' They went into the store, and he handed her a business card.

Sepedjian, who manages the Rock Shop, [illegible] Love's visit this way: "El was kicking it out on the bench in front of the store and she came up. I overheard a little bit of it— I heard her saying, 'Look, can you handle doing this, can you get this done? What do you want for it?' They were talking about knocking off Kurt Cobain. Then El brought her inside and said to me, quietly, 'She offered me fifty grand.' She took the card and told me she would be calling me, looking for El a few months down the line."

In March [illegible] called the Rock Shop looking for El Duce. Sepedjian took the call. "I said, 'He's not around, [illegible]n tour.' She was like, 'What?!?' She w[illegible]ming. 'That son of a bitch we made all [illegible]rement!' She was cursing, saying, 'What am I gonna do?' I said, 'I don't know. I've got a busine[illegible] run, you know? Good-bye.'"

Ten days later, Cobain's body was found. "I was like, 'Whoa, I wonder if she actually did pay some sucker to blow his head off!'" the gravel-voiced El Duce says. Sepedjian agrees: "Maybe she got somebody else."

"I think Kurt was getting ready to divorce her for adultery charges," El Duce theorizes. "She had to have him whacked right away so she could get the money."

Often—and understandably—accused of misogyny, the unabashedly puerile Mentors—vocalist El Duce, bassist Dr. Heathen Scum, guitarist Sickie Wifebeater and drummer Moosedick—have been delighting their cultish cadre of followers and offending everyone else since 1977. Authors of such controversial songs as "On the Rag," "Clap Trap" and "Heterosexuals Have the Right to Rock," the band has attained notoriety in underground music circles for its bizarre live shows, which include gorgo dancers and various sex toys.

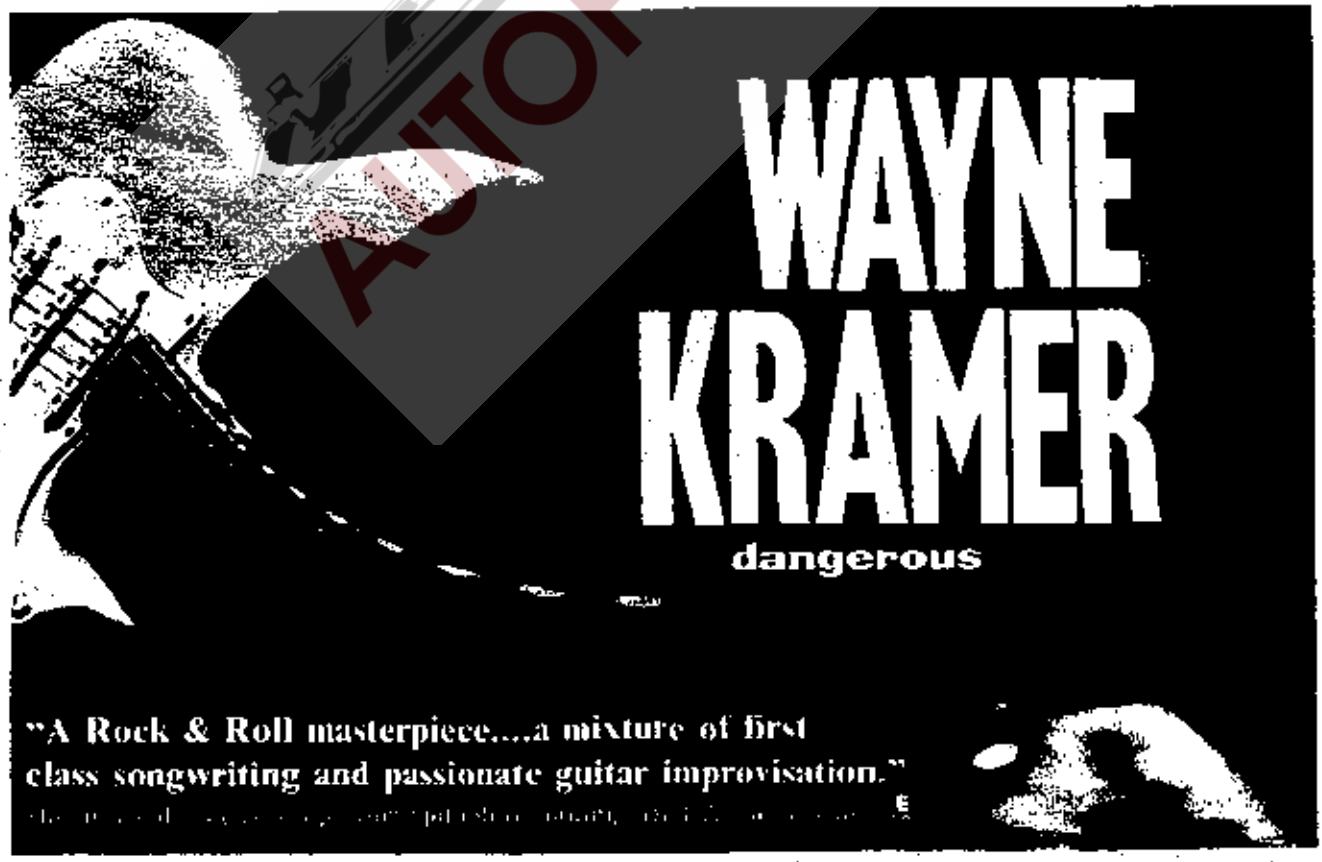

Perhaps the Mentors' greatest claim to fame occurred in 1985, when Tipper Gore quoted their song "Golden Showers" at a Congressional hearing during the Parents [illegible]sic Resource Center campaign against obscene lyrics. "Bend up and smell my anal vapors," Tipper quoted El Duce. "Your face will be my toilet paper."

El Duce may just be trying to cash in on the Cobain-death controversy: His side-project band is suitably named Courtney Killed Kurt.

HANK HARRISON
DEADHEAD DADDY DEAREST

Hank Harrison, Courtney Love's father, doesn't get much respect. Generally portrayed by the media as Love's deadbeat dad, Harrison wants to set the record straight about his life with Courtney.

While most accounts contend Harrison has had little contact with Courtney after his marriage to her mother, Linda Carroll, broke up when she was five years old, he tells a different story. "I was with her from the day she was born until the time she was six, either every weekend or every day," he explains from somewhere in Northern California. "Then they went to Oregon and she was adopted out from under me. I didn't have any contact with her until she was fifteen, when I got her out of juvenile hall and she came to live with me. I had complete custody of her until she was eighteen."

Courtney had been sent to live in juvenile hall (reform school) for shoplifting. Harrison believes that's where she picked up a particularly bad habit. "Juvenile hall taught her how to snitch," he says. "It took me a long time to figure out where she learned to snitch. She got extra favors in juvie by turning people in. She snitched me off a couple of times to the cops for having grass in the house."

Love's words about her father are equally unkind. She claims that she was conceived on a date rape, and was given LSD and beaten by her father. "I don't want this man near me ever," she told the San Francisco Chronicle last May. Harrison—who went to the College of San Mateo with Phil Lesh before Lesh cofounded the Grateful Dead, managed the group when they were known as the Warlocks and has written two books about his experiences with the band (The Dead Book and The Dead)—is constantly characterized by Love as someone who has forever milked his Grateful Dead affiliation. "He makes his living as a parasite off the Grateful Dead," she said in the February issue of Playboy. "He scams all these Deadheads who worship him because they think he is close to the Dead."

"Phil changed her diapers!" Harrison responds, incredulous to Courtney's barbs. "Jerry's first baby, Heather, and Courtney used to play together. It hurts me so much that she doesn't realize how lucky she was to be one of the chosen children of that scene. Sure, I make a living off the Dead. There's a demand for the books. What does she want me to do, let my books go out of print?"

Despite these jabs at her dad, Courtney has been known to flaunt her Grateful Dead credentials. The Playboy article reported that Lesh is her godfather (true), and she has often stated that she is pictured on the back of the Dead's Aoxomoxoa album (false) and attended Woodstock when she was five (also false).

HANK HARRISON AND COURTNEY IN NOVEMBER, 1979. SHE WAS 15 YEARS OLD.

Harrison's next book, Beyond Nirvana: The Legacy of Kurt Cobain, won't do much to patch up the feud between father and daughter. In it, he charges her with complicity in the death of her husband. "She profited from his death in a considerable way," he says. "I know for a fact that he was trying to divorce her and she didn't want the divorce, so she had him killed or knew it was going to happen. The timing was of the essence. There is no doubt in my mind that Kurt Cobain was murdered."

Harrison, who never met his rockstar son-in-law and has yet to meet his granddaughter, Frances Bean, knew something was wrong the minute he heard Cobain was dead. "I suspected some foul play," he says.

Richard Lee, who hosts a public-access TV show in Seattle called "Kurt Cobain Was Murdered," was the first to publicly reach the same conclusion—that Cobain did not commit suicide. Harrison read Lee's postings on the Internet and called him up. Lee "didn't have anything substantial," Harrison says. "But when I got a hold of [private investigator] Tom Grant, I started thinking, 'Oh, man, do I feel good.' Now I know that sounds weird, but I felt good for myself, because I wasn't psychotic anymore. I wasn't imagining things. I wasn't alone. I wasn't the only guy in the world that thought that some foul play was going on."

Regardless of the bad blood between Harrison and Love, he says, "It was horribly disappoin to find out that Grant thought own daughter did it. It took m about six months of phone call and talks and letters to Grant a complete openness to Grant, before he'd even trust me suffi ciently to talk to me, because when he found out who I was I figured I was pulling some kind scam. He said, 'I know a lot abo you, Hank.' He let it be known t he had been checking me out. I couldn't believe Courtney's own father would be on his side." (Harrison contends, "I never hit Courtney or beat her or abused her or denied her anything. At n time was Courtney ever given ac or anything like that.")

What evidence does Harrison have that Love was involved in Cobain's death? First and foremost, he says, "Courtney has a dar side, a suppressed and repressed dark side to her personality that is extraordinarily violent. She tried to [redacted]. She's been extrem[redacted]ent with her friends, a[redacted]ed out of every band she's been in for violent outbursts. It's almost like she has multiple personalities. And one of those personalities is really evil—really, really dark and sinister—more so than you can imagine. I mean real sick. And I didn't make her that way. I've had to deal with this most of my adult life, after I lost her, and then when I got her back and found out how screwed up she was."

Lockheed and founded his own publishing imprint, The Archives Press. He was living on a houseboat in Sausalito, CA. "She was really impressed by the bohemian lifestyle," he recalls. "A lot of art, a lot of books. She was cool, but she was only fifteen. As she got more and more emancipated, she started to see me as not such a successful character. She wanted to have a bigger father who could do her some good in terms of her showbiz fantasy.

"When she was little—real, real little—she really wanted to be a big star. I know a lot of girls say they want to be a movie star, but she meant it. She'd just do a little dance for the party. Anybody who was in the house, she'd do a dance for them. She'd always find some way to draw attention to herself."

In 1980, Courtney moved to Ireland with her father, who took a two-year sabbatical there. "She lived with me for five months until the winter snows melted. As soon as spring came along, she went to Liverpool. She was boy-crazy. She was ballin' cats, turnin' tricks. She would dance and get money that way too. Every time I saw her, she had big bucks. She would always have money and clothes." This was Love's new-wave period, when she groupied around England with the likes of Julian Cope and Echo and the Bunnymen.

Harrison returned to the Bay Area in 1982, followed shortly by Courtney. He and his business associate Triona Watson bought a Victorian house in Menlo Park, south of the city, where Courtney would frequently visit. "We were her only stable, local Bay Area address," he says. "She was itinerant, going from crash pad to crash pad, punk scene to punk scene, junkie pad to junkie pad. She was living in 'the Vats'—the abandoned Hamm's brewery. People used to go down inside the vats and get drunk on the fumes. She was a 'vat rat' for a while."

A cyberpioneer at the dawn of the Silicon Valley microcomputer revolution, Harrison took the job as editor of Doctor Dobb's Journal and would go on to hold positions at InfoWorld and A Plus magazines. These accomplishments did not impress Courtney. She decorated her room in the 1870 Victorian with dozens of lit candles, lace and baby dolls, and replayed movies like Frances, Birdy and Pretty in Pink. "She watched the Frances Farmer story thirty-two times," Harrison says. "It worried me. I realized at that point that Courtney was deeply troubled."

Courtney would spend the weekends in San Francisco. One time she came back "so spaced out that we had to sit on her and give her Valium," says her father, who was a veteran of bringing people down from bad acid trips. His diagnosis was that Courtney was on a highly dangerous mixture of bathtub fentanyl. "This was really severe. She was screaming at me and really freaking out. She was psycho."

By the time Courtney turned 20 in 1984, she had developed friendships with Portland, OR musicians Jennifer Finch (L7) and Kat Bjelland (Babes In Toyland). Together they formed Sweet Baby Doll before later splintering into three different groups. She toured around the country, from Portland to Minneapolis to Los Angeles to San Francisco. In L.A. "I think the main problem was that I was on SST Records," Morland told Nerve magazine in 1993. "She thought that was too small of a label for her husband to be on. That wasn't very punk-rock of her, was it?" He said they did not maintain a "cordial or friendly relationship."

"If you're a Lincoln or a Peters and you call for the cops, you might as well forget about it," she says. "If you're a Britton, they'll be right there." The sheriff's department denies all accusations of unequal enforcement.

Pickett fears that gang culture is beginning to affect the reservation. "Byron wore a red rag and Neil wore a blue rag. Local kids go to juvenile hall and come back with stupid ideas." Gang insignias appear spray-painted on reservation walls.

Violence broke out again at Round Valley when Elvin "Pink" Peters, Leonard's brother, was shot and injured on October 13. There were no arrests. Then, on November 7, Mendocino deputies seized rifles and shotguns from the Lincoln and Peters kin after Donna and Harold Britton, brother of Gene, had their house fired on. Claudia Britton, Gene's widow, reported being fired on as her son drove her to her brother-in-law's house to evacuate her children. The Santa Rosa Press Democrat reported that a nearby day-care center was caught in the crossfire and hit with bullets. Edwina Lincoln was arrested for allegedly shoving a deputy as her home was searched. Although the sheriff's department reported an exchange of fire between the Britton and Peters residences, no guns were confiscated from Brittons.

Meanwhile, the government's case against Bear Lincoln is not going smoothly. On November 30, Judge James Luther dismissed the grand jury indictment of Lincoln on the grounds that the prosecutor did not sufficiently inform the jury of inconsistencies in prior statements by deputy Dennis Miller, the key witness. In early statements to investigators, Miller said Lincoln fired from the darkness after Peters had approached the patrol car alone. But he told the grand jury that the two men approached the car together.

Neil Britton was the only civilian to testify before the grand jury that indicted Bear Lincoln.

New charges were filed immediately after the indictment was dropped, and Lincoln remains in custody. Evidence on the new charges must be presented in a public hearing rather than a closed grand jury before the case goes to trial.

"I'm terrified this is gonna become a dead issue," says Cyndi Pickett. "They killed an innocent man and they can't 'fess up to it, so they're gonna ruin somebody else's life." ★

I'll get you a ticket, we'll sit down and have a chat—or I'll fly down there and bring you some money.' She said she needed the money wired to her right away. She was strung out. I told her that heroin is not my thing and I don't want to support her doing heroin. She promised that she would never talk to me again and she would have me killed."

During the next six years—a period that saw Courtney start her own band, Hole, meet Kurt Cobain, the meteoric rise of his band Nirvana, the marriage of Kurt and Courtney and the birth of their daughter—Harrison was out of the picture. All he knew was what he read in magazines. Finally, he saw Courtney again at a show featuring the Lemonheads, Fugazi and Hole in San Francisco in the fall of 1993.

Harrison recalls: "I called first to make sure it was OK. She was happy to see me, gave me big hugs. She said she didn't want me to talk to anybody, she just wanted me to sit there, shut up and listen to the show. I had a vodka and saw the show. I was impressed with the band. I was just blown away, really.

"The next day I met her at the hotel. Courtney was—and this I'm absolutely sure of because I saw it with my own eyes—having an affair with Evan Dando. He and Courtney were sleeping together in the same bed. I figured Kurt must be pretty liberal, because she's on the road with Evan Dando, and she's constantly smooching all over him. They were very, very chummy. He came up to me and shook my hand. He had read one of my Dead books! He said, 'Let's go to dinner.' But Courtney yelled, 'No! Get out of here!' She told him to go away.

"And then while we were in the room she called Kurt. She asked to speak to Mr. Poupon. That's how I found out what his secret name was. I never met him, but I was in the room when she talked to him on the other end of the line. That was the closest I ever got to Kurt."

Harrison ended this visit by asking Courtney if he could "come up [to Seattle] and see the baby over Christmas." She wrote down two addresses and phone numbers that turned out to be bogus. Harrison now believes the only reason Love "trotted me around" was because she wanted her bodyguards to "see who I was, so that I could be taken care of at some future date. That's where she's at. She's way smarter than me. I've only got about a 130 IQ and a photographic memory, but I'm like a burned-out hippie kind of guy. I don't have any real guile or bad karma. She's totally fucking intelligent. Like a surgeon or something. She thinks six or seven levels at once, like her mother."

Harrison has not had any contact with his now-infamous daughter since then. But he's convinced she has been harassing him with "threats of violence, hang-up calls and odd silences" on the phone. Last October, two men tried to rough him up. "One guy started laying hands on me, pushing me around," he says. "I let the dogs out of the car and the dogs chased them and they ran off. I don't know if that has anything to do with Courtney or not, but I've been told that Courtney has a contract on me."

Are these the deranged ramblings of a paranoid or the dead-on perceptions of a truth-seeker?

"I am not trying to put my daughter in jail," Harrison explains. "It's just that I found myself caught up in a web of bizarre events that affects my life. It would be very much like you child came home with plans for an atom bom in his briefcase and you wanted to know wher the fuck he got them. My daughter came hom with a dead husband and I want to know wha the fuck happened!"

Did Courtney Love conspire to kill Kurt Cobain?

"Absolutely," contends her 55-year-old father. "I think he was drugged and killed by people that Courtney had no control over. The might have said, 'Look, we're going to kill the guy—you have to go along with it.' Either they told Courtney about it, or Courtney knew abou it and was in on it in some way, and kept her mouth shut.

"She tore Kurt apart. Even though he was a big rock star, he couldn't make his old lady happy. Nothing Kurt Cobain could do could make Courtney Love happy. And so the guy got more and more and more depressed. If he di kill himself, I know why!"

DAVID WOODARD
DREAM MACHINE WEAVER

No living American writer has influenced rock'n'roll songwriters more than William Burroughs. Of the stars who have paid homag to Burroughs, none made as strong an impression on him as Kurt Cobain. It therefort came as a surprise to the editors of HIGH TIME when on December 17, 1994, the magazine received a fax from a Seattle-based group, "Friends Understanding Kurt," laying partial blame for Cobain's death on the Master himself

The gist of the charge was that in the last months of his life, Cobain acquired a device called the Dream Machine, which had been cr ated by Burroughs' friend and collaborator Brion Gysin and popularized by Burroughs. Th Dream Machine, the group wrote, is "a danger ous trance-inducing contraption," and there ha been a "string of suicides associated with the machine since the '60s." Furthermore, they claimed, it was "in fact, the catalyst in Kurt's unbelievably tragic, untimely death. To this day Courtney ponders whether CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

When the machine is turned on, the cylinder spins at 78 rpm. Subjects sit in front of the cylinder and close their eyes, and the light reflects through the holes in the spinning cylinder onto the eyelids. The resulting flashes of light may, if the subjects are susceptible, create a mild sensation akin to the effect of the simplest light show. Aided by the inhalation of good pot, the device might create at best a mild dreamlike sensation, or at worst (unless you're prone to epileptic seizures) an even milder headache. It's an adaptation of flicker technology, first seen with strobe lights and now packaged as brain machines.

Burroughs once said about the Dream Machine, "Subjects report dazzling lights and unearthly brilliance and color. Elaborate geometric constructions of incredible intricacy build up from a multidimensional mosaic into living fireballs like the mandalas of Eastern Mysticism or resolve momentarily into apparently individual images and powerfully dramatic scenes like brightly colored dreams."

Following up the same fax, SOMA, the San Francisco "journal of Left Coast culture," found Steve Newman, a representative of Friends Understanding Kurt, who claimed Cobain had used the Dream Machine for "up to 72 hours at a time." Newman said the core of FUK was himself, Love, Love's attorney Celeste Mitchell and other friends of Cobain's, as well as various peripheral members. Love, he explained, played more of a "low-key role." HIGH TIMES' efforts to contact FUK were unsuccessful. Interview requests made through Love's record company, Geffen, and publicity agency, PMK, about this subject, were not answered. An attempt to acquire photos taken during Cobain's visit to Burroughs' home in Lawrence, KS in 1993—that had been given to Rosemary Carroll, Love's principal attorney—also didn't merit a return call.

However, we did locate David Woodard, the San Francisco businessman who manufactures and sells replicas of Gysin and Burroughs' Dream Machine for $145. In an interview conducted by Victor Bockris for HIGH TIMES, Woodard contended that Cobain called him as many as 20 times over a period of six months during 1993 and 1994 to talk about his life and the Dream Machine. "I got the sense that he was using it for long periods, but 72 hours? That's ludicrous."

Woodard met Cobain at a party in Seattle in the summer of 1993. He prefers not to detail the specifics of how and when Kurt bought the machine. According to the FUK fax, "Woodard honorably complied with Kurt's very sincere wish, promptly and professionally shipping a freshly minted machine to Madrone [Seattle]. The state of California does not prohibit the sale of this fancy death machine to desperate young millionaires."

DREAM MACHINE MAKER DAVID WOODARD IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Surprisingly, Woodard admits that the Dream Machine may have compounded Cobain's problems. "If anything," he says, "the Dream Machine helped him to see that he was beginning to fall apart as a cultural figure. He felt like Andy Warhol, Wagner and Satan rolled up into one. He was in a very special place which invited timely suicide. It seemed like it was the perfect decision."

Does Woodard concede that the device he sold Cobain contributed to his death? "I pictured the suicide as being informed by an inner voice which was made audible through his experiences with the Dream Machine," he explains. "Yes, the Dream Machine played a part."

The controversy over what effect a psychedelic light machine had on Kurt Cobain during the last days of his life may be a smokescreen that plays into the hands of those who would have us believe he took his life two years ago. Tom Grant calls the FUK fax a "confusion tactic" and "a futile effort to throw a blanket of deception over the truth." He clearly believes Friends Understanding Kurt is Courtney Love.

Hopefully, this article will stimulate discussion and lead to more revelations from those who really know what happened to Kurt Cobain and why he is no longer with us. ■

Book details murder theories in the death of Nirvana leader

Cobain murder theories thrive on the web: see ...
http://www.southam.com/edmontonjournal/

Journal extra

Allegations that Kurt Cobain was murdered have been exhumed again.

Monday, Montreal radio station CHOM-FM broadcast the first of a four-part "world exclusive" based on a forthcoming book by two Montreal journalists, Ian Halperin and Max Wallace. Culling information from 200 interviews in Seattle and Los Angeles over the last 16 months, Halperin claims his book will give "a very good idea of who (killed Cobain)," and that his widow, Courtney Love, may have been involved.

The most inflammatory sources include Tom Grant, the private investigator originally hired by Love to find the missing Cobain in the days immediately preceding his death; Seattle coroner Dr. Nikolas Hartshorne; Dylan Carlson, Cobain's best friend; and a man named Il Duce, who claims Love offered him $50,000 U.S. to murder Cobain just days before he was found dead of what was ruled a self-inflicted shotgun wound. Cobain died on April 5, 1994, and was found on April 8.

Halperin and Wallace have completed the book and say they have a U.S. publisher for it, whose name Halperin would not reveal yesterday. Wallace is in Los Angeles, where he is conducting an interview with tabloid-news show Hard Copy to be broadcast tomorrow on NBC.

Halperin claims sources in the Seattle police department have indicated they will reopen the case and file murder-conspiracy charges against someone within a week.

His involvement with the story began in July '94.

Halperin, a former winner of Rolling Stone's college journalism award and a saxophonist, was touring with his band. While in Seattle, he heard the well-circulated rumor that Cobain had been murdered.

At first skeptical, he began to talk to people connected to Cobain, including Carlson, Cobain's best friend and also a friend of Halperin. "The journalistic instinct took over," and he and Wallace commenced the months of interviews that make up the forthcoming book.

They have more than 100 hours of videotaped sessions. Grant is the main theorist that Love was involved. Halperin said Il Duce, a singer in a metal band called the Mentors, has "passed a polygraph" with his accusation that Love tried to buy his services as a hit man.

"We also have Courtney's father, Hank Harrison, accusing his own daughter of murder," Halperin said.

The story gets even more conspiratorial. Murder allegations include Hole bassist Kristen Pfaff, who overdosed on heroin just two months after Cobain's death, and the shooting of Seattle police officer Antonio Terry, whose name was on the missing persons report filed when Cobain disappeared in April '94.

Halperin was careful to say he's "not accusing anyone of murder. I just want the case reopened to stop the copy-cat suicides, which are still going on."

Halperin was co-author of a series of controversial articles in the Concordia student newspaper in 1983-84 criticising the university's athletic department and its then-director. A $100,000 libel suit was settled out of court. Also, a charge of purjury against Halperin was thrown out by a Quebec Court judge in 1990.

Down the street at Sam the Record Man, the CD sold 400 copies in two hours on Tuesday, the first day it went on sale, said Rob Mitchell, national director of press and publicity for Sony Music Canada.

Sony shipped a staggering 400,000 copies and is already taking re-orders.

And while Dion is treated like royalty here, demand for the album extends far beyond Quebec's borders.

"People are buying it like crazy," Michalynn Robinson, assistant manager at HMV in downtown Winnipeg's Eaton Place, said as Dion's music played over the store speakers in the background.

'In her dust'

For all the ink that's been spilled over Canadian exports Shania Twain and Alanis Morissette, Dion appears poised to become the biggest commercial success this country has ever produced. "She's going to leave Bryan Adams in her dust," said Mitchell, who says Sony can afford to be bullish and cocky about Falling Into You.

He may be right. Dion's third and last English-language album, Color of My Love, sold more than one million copies in Canada and is approaching 12 million worldwide, including a million in Japan. Her second self-titled English-language CD, Celine Dion, is also closing in on a million sales in Canada.

ROCK TALK

This is a rock column currently flooded with tales of murder conspiracy, so let it open with Karl Marx. At the moment, he fits in as well here as anyone.

To paraphrase Uncle Karl, all facts and personages of great importance in world history occur twice, first as tragedy, then as farce – a blatantly prescient reference to the Kurt Cobain situation.

The "situation," raised in a forthcoming book by Montreal journalists Ian Halperin and Max Wallace and excerpted in a four-part series on CHOM-FM, is the allegation that Cobain was murdered. Halperin raised the question in a press conference Monday and told The Gazette that Seattle police would probably file murder-conspiracy charges against somebody within a week.

And now a word from Seattle police detective Steve Kirkland.

In an interview yesterday, Kirkland said, "Our investigation showed that it was a self-inflicted death. We don't have any plans to arrest or charge anyone." He also called a report that Seattle police are preparing to file murder-conspiracy charges against someone "a bald-faced lie."

Yesterday, Halperin said that on Monday he was emphasizing that he had a secret source in the Seattle police, that the information was garbled in the telling, but that charges are forthcoming – maybe from the FBI, maybe from a joint Seattle-LAPD effort. He also

Rollins is funny and self-revealing.

Henry Rollins, tattoos mostly concealed and in loose non-rock pants, stumps across the stage of the Théâtre Olympia delivering a rant on strip bars. A devoted crowd laughs, and well they should. Rollins is funny and self-revealing, and as a standup monologist, won't make anyone forget Bill Hicks.

Sadly, there is a question as to whether or not enough people remember Hicks to forget him. If you do not, then seek out his (doubtless deleted) records. Sunday night, erstwhile heavy-music man turned standup Rollins worked many of the same topics and themes (ignorance, violence, our crumbling social yadda yadda), but – and this will surprise fans of Rollins – without the uncoiling rage Hicks showed at his best.

That said, Rollins got off some good ones dissing the Brier, all the more impressive because he had obviously thought up the bit during his stay in Canada; they don't watch a lot of curling back home in Henry's New York.

Strange, then, to reconcile the decent, approachable geek riffing on his own foibles and weaknesses, and the Uber-commandant of Rollins's rock concerts, the seriousness of whose music makes the earnest early U2 seem like the Partridge Family by comparison. Why can't he integrate the two somewhat?

Somewhere within the complaining, know that the final statement is a positive one. We bitch because Rollins is worth it. This generation has precious few artists willing to contribute to the public discourse beyond tired magazine elegies on their harrowing soul-emphasizing that he had a secret source in the Seattle police, that the information was garbled in the telling, but that charges are forthcoming – maybe from the FBI, maybe from a joint Seattle-LAPD effort. In any event, the scene has shifted to Los Angeles, where Halperin said a man called Il Duce is going to be contacting police to tell them Courtney Love offered him $50,000 U.S. to kill her husband.

Kirkland of the Seattle police says, "As you well know, if Courtney Love offered $50,000 to somebody in Los Angeles to kill somebody, then that is a crime which took place in Los Angeles, and the Seattle Police Department has no jurisdiction there."

The story leaks on, while Halperin and Wallace keep crucial sources to themselves until the book comes out. In the meantime, an innocent rock critic suddenly enmeshed in conversations with Seattle police officers when he's never even been indicted in that city hereby offers the Ten Proofs That Courtney Love Killed Kurt Cobain:

- Very little has been written about her whereabouts on April 5, 1994.
- The junkies in her life have a habit of dying.
- She is the daughter of a psychiatrist.
- She stole all her best riffs from her dead husband.
- That line from Nirvana's All Apologies that goes "Married/Buried."
- She may or may not have offered Il Duce $50,000 to ice her better two-thirds, and the L.A. Police Department or the FBI may or may not reopen the Cobain case, in response to evidence compiled by Montreal journalists-turned-story breakers Halperin and Wallace.
- If O.J. was innocent, somebody has to be guilty.
- She is a bitch.
- The brevity of her mourning period, following which she allegedly renewed her pre-Kurt habit of sleeping with burgeoning rock stars (Billy Corgan, Trent Reznor, Evan Dando).
- If you play Miss World backwards ...

Pretty compelling evidence, no? The Wallace/Halperin book has yet to be published, and nobody around here has read it yet. It may contain compelling evidence. We'd better see some soon.

It makes perfect sense for two guys who've written a contentious book to stir crazed interest in it with radio segments that leak tantalizing bits of info. It makes perfect sense for any as-yet unidentified publisher worth its advertising department to allow those "exclusive" bits to tantalize the audience.

It makes more sense for the tantalized audience to cherish its cynicism. Is this whole story a mass of conjecture aimed at prodding loose some suspected hidden truth about Kurt's death?

As the "situation" gathers its momentum beneath it, the rock audience and the greater public are afforded the opportunity to prove themselves better than the jackals who turned the O.J. Simpson trial into blood sport. Alternatively, they can prove Karl right, punk the whole mess into ugly farce and shame the generation with months of media hounding, crazed speculation and celebrity grave-robbing.

It makes more sense for the audience to cherish its cynicism.

Simply put: as someone who's as guilty as the next loudmouth of making public pronouncements in bars and coffee shops on the nature of existence and on which celebrities/artists should be put to death, there remains a difference between that bar talk we believe in our hearts and spew in the company of friends, and the things we must justify and prove before we can declaim them to the greater world of strangers.

Disliking, even loathing someone is not reason enough to send her to a deep, dark prison cell anywhere but in one's own imagination.

Until the Seattle PD or the LAPD or the FBI send the bloodhounds over to Château Love, she remains innocent until proven Lucretia Borgia. So who do you think will play her in the TV movie?

3/12/96 1320; Phone call from Santina Leuci of Hard Copy (213 862 1068). She started the conversation by asking questions regarding the Cobain Death. I told her that I had just read the article in the Edmonton Journal and she became very irate. She said that Hard Copy had been scheduled to run a segment on Cobain but that they couldn't run it now that the article had appeared in the Journal. When I asked him about the quote in the article that said he had sources at SPD, Wallace said that Halperin had been misquoted.

3/13/96 1215; Phone call from Mark Lapage of the Edmonton Journal. He asked if I had referred Briggs to the LAPD and I told him that I had. He asked why. I told him that if Briggs had knowledge of a crime that took place in LA, he would have to report it to the police in LA. I explained to him that we have no jurisdiction in LA. He said that Halperin told him that he had sources in the Seattle Police Department.

SUBJECT: Kurt Cobain Suicide

Lieutenant.

This is a tape taken by "SKI" of a phone conversation he had today with a guy who identified himself as JACK RIGGS. I believe Riggs is the one who contacted Ritter about two weeks ago and told Ritter he had broken the Kurt Cobain murder.

I had a message on my voice mail yesterday from a guy who identified himself as Jack Riggs and he left basically the same message. He, Riggs, had broken the Cobain murder case because "EL DOUCHE" had passed the polygraph test. Not knowing who EL DOUCHE was I left a message with Kirkland that I would contact this Riggs today at the number he left me (310) 374-5266. Since he had talked with SKI today I didn't bother to call.

I know Ila is going to be very unhappy with this but I think this tape should be transcribed. The tape is going to be a bitch to do because of the poor quality but as you can tell when listening to the tape this Jack Riggs is not some 220 like Richard Lee. He is going to follow-up on this information and I believe we also will have to look into it. Riggs does mention in the tape he is working with Tom Grant who you will recall was the private detective originally hired by Courtney Love. Grant currently has some type of dog and pony show touring the country with the bottom line being Courtney killed, or had killed, her loving husband Kurt Cobain.

Since there is now some light at the end of my retirement tunnel please make yourself familiar with all aspects of this investigation. We cannot burden Detective Kirkland as he is retiring in October of 1996. A supervisor with your background would be the natural choice to assume this awesome burden!!!!!!!!!Repeat after me

COURTNEY COURTNEY COURTNEY COURTNEY

You have now been formally initiated into the "KURT COBAIN CLUB MYSTIQUE"

STATEMENT OF: BRIGGS, Jack

CIESYNSKI: Today's date is 3/7/96. The time is 1230 hours. I'm Detective Mike Ciesynski of the Seattle Police Homicide Unit and I'm speaking to Jack.

BRIGGS: Jack.

CIESYNSKI: Jack Briggs.

BRIGGS: Jack Briggs, yeah.

CIESYNSKI: Jack, do you realize I'm taping this conversation?

BRIGGS: Yes, I do.

CIESYNSKI: And do I have your permission to do so?

BRIGGS: Yes, you do.

CIESYNSKI: Jack, you have some information about the death of..

BRIGGS: Kurt Cobain.

CIESYNSKI: Kurt Cobain and you wish to pass it onto us, is that correct?

BRIGGS: Yeah.

CIESYNSKI: Just tell us what you have, Jack.

BRIGGS: Okay. What we've got, and I've been researching this story for over a year. We have a man who has claimed that Courtney Love offered him $50,000 to kill Kurt Cobain at the very end of 1993. His story is that he was approached by Courtney Love outside of an establishment in LA. She came up to him. They knew each other for years. There was a relationship between a former member of her band and a member of his band so he can establish that he knew her for years. And his name is Eldon Hoag, by the moniker of El Douche.

CIESYNSKI: And that's Hoag, H O A G?

BRIGGS: H O A G, I believe. Yep. Well one second. Hey, I'll be right back.

DATE 3-7-96 TIME 1230 PLACE

STATEMENT OF: BRIGGS, Jack

CIESYNSKI: Okay. Go ahead.

BRIGGS: Okay. So his name is Eldon Hoag. He goes by the moniker El Douche and he can prove his relationship with Courtney Love. Not only do we have his story but we also have the owner of the establishment who overheard the conversation and El Douche, Eldon Hoag, brought Courtney Love into the store and gave her a card to contact him through. Her story at that time, according to El Douche, was that she was going to contact him at a later date when she wanted the job done. About a week before Kurt Cobain was found dead she did call the establishment looking for El Douche. He was not around. His band was on tour. The witness who heard the conversation was then badgered by Courtney Love "where was he", she was screaming and yelling. She needed him. And in fact, he was also asked at that point "what about you?" "Why don't you do the job?" He said "I'm not interested. I don't want to deal with this" and he basically hung up on her. Now that happened about a week before he was found dead. Now I heard about this story. It was told to me a few months after the murder, excuse me, the death. I'm calling it murder but, from that moment onward I've researched the whole story. I proved the link between Eldon Hoag and Courtney Love. I proved the legitimacy of this story by having them take lie detectors and they both just passed the most advanced lie detector in the world. It's John Hopkins University lie detector and it's operated by a man named Dr. Edward Geld here in LA. And I was waiting, basically I tried to call a week ago but I was waiting basically to see the results of this lie detector. And he passed with flying colors. And the base of the whole story fits because she's not exactly your normal type of person so for somebody to say that somebody offered them money there's always like it's oh boy, that's a pretty wild story. But if you look into her past and her bizarre behavior, it fits exactly with her profile. And again this guy has passed the lie detector. He's willing to come forward and I think that there needs to be information taken from his man because basically if what he's saying is true, and I have to believe it, it proves that she had the intent to kill him and I have read the private eye's report - a man named Tom Grant who was hired by Courtney Love to find Kurt Cobain before he was dead. And his report also concludes that he feels that Courtney Love had something to do with Kurt Cobain's death. So this may be the missing link. Obviously, somebody else did the job but she was hot for this guy to do the job. Now this guy is about 35 years old, he's about 5'10", 230 and he is a skinhead so..

CIESYNSKI: Who is this?

BRIGGS: This Eldon Hoag guy.

CIESYNSKI: Where can we contact him at?

BRIGGS: I don't have a number for him right now. I have a number where he can be reached through. A house that he stays at - one of his band member's houses. Would you like that?

CIESYNSKI: Sure.

BRIGGS: Yeah. 909-681-6545. And that's like a message number so you can leave a message there, he can get the message.

CIESYNSKI: Now what he can say is that he was approached by Courtney Love.

BRIGGS: Yeah.

CIESYNSKI: And wanted her to hire him.

BRIGGS: No. She, yeah, she..

CIESYNSKI: She wanted to hire him.

BRIGGS: She wanted to hire him and he never fully said, it was assumed he was going to do the job but he never fully said yes. Basically the conversation went, as I was told, that she offered him $50,000. She said she wanted to blow his head off. He said if she was serious, he was serious, but he really at the time didn't know whether she was serious. And it was left at that and they gave him, they gave her a number to ahold of him through and sure enough she did call the number in attempt to locate him a week before he was found dead.

CIESYNSKI: And they had, she knew this guy, right?

BRIGGS: Yeah. It's a very long establishment. This guy is from Seattle. His band was not a big huge band but the Mentors are a very well known band and like I said, the link is between a former drummer of Hole and his guitar player. It's well established that they were boyfriend and girlfriend and that he had been with Courtney Love on a number of occasions. He had partied with her and had frequented with the band on a number of occasions back in the early '90's.

SEATTLE POLICE DEPARTMENT MEMORANDUM

TO: Detective Steve Kirkland
Homicide Unit

DATE: 3/10/96

FROM: Sergeant Don Cameron
Homicide Unit

SUBJECT: Kurt Cobain Death

Steve we are going to have to do some work on the information Jack Briggs is suppose to have unearthed regarding the death of Kurt Cobain (This has to do with the memo I sent to Lieutenant Gerdes and yourself last week regarding Ski's phone conversation with this Briggs.) Ila was able to transcribe a really bad tape of the conversation between Briggs and Ski which I have attached to this memo. They have me in "WARM & FUZZY SCHOOL" so I won't be able to do it. Anyway here are some things I would like you to do.

1. Contact this Briggs and tell him we are interested in his information.
2. Advise him we are looking forward to working with the Los Angeles Police Department on this joint investigation.
    a. This conspiracy originated in Los Angeles and is L.A.P.D. jurisdiction.
    b. For the most part all the players are either in L.A. or rotate through there on a regular basis.
    c. The polygraph operator etc. is also an L.A. resident.
3. Have him contact us with the name of the L.A. P.D. detective handling the investigation down there and their case number. (I guess it could be L.A. Sheriff's Office also but you get the point.)
4. Request copies of any statements he has generated in his year long investigation and a copy of the polygraph chart and the questions asked during the test.

The point we have to make is we will cooperate with him but L.A. authorities obviously have to get involved. If you think of something else go for it.

If Briggs agrees to send us any of the above you can have him send it to me or yourself. I will be out of school Friday and we can go from there.

I don't think this guy is going to go away and as I said before if you listen to the tape he doesn't sound like a "220." I think if we don't approach him with an positive attitude he is going to bite us in the ass. It will be interesting to see if he does go to the local cops!

EPK II

Ephesians from the tongue of an experienced simpleton who obviously could rather be an emasculated, infantile complainee. This note should be pretty easy to understand. All the warnings from the punk rock 101 tapes over the years, since my first introduction to the, shall we say, ethics involved with independence and the encouragement of your community has proven to be very true. I haven't felt the excitement of listening to as well as [redacted] been creating and writing for too many years now. To feel [redacted] because I have [redacted] of Pigs. It doesn't affect me the way in which it did for Freddy Mercury who used to love and relish in the love and adoration from the crowd, which is something I still admire and envy. The fact is, I don't feel very much of one, I simply don't feel fair to you anymore. The worst crime I can think of would be to people off by faking my end pretending as if I'm having 100% fun. Sometimes I feel as I should have a punch in time clock before I walk out on stage. I've tried everything in my power to to appreciate it (and I do, God, believe me I do, but it's not enough. I can't appreciate the fact that I and we have affected and entertained a lot of people. I must be one of those narcissists who only appreciate things when they're gone. I'm too sensitive. I need to be slightly numb in order to regain the enthusiasm I could had as a child. On our last 3 tours I've had a much better appreciation for all the people I've known personally and as fans of our music, but I still can't get over the frustration, the pain and [redacted] for everyone. There's good in all of us and I simply love people too much, so much that it makes me feel too curious sad. The sad little, sensitive, unappreciative, pisces, Jesus man! Why don't you just enjoy it? I don't have a goddess of a wife who sweats ambition and empathy and a daughter who reminds me too much of what I used to be. full of love and joy, kissing every person she meets cause everyone is good and will do her no harm. And that terrifies me to the point to where I can't stand the thought of Frances becoming the miserable self destructive, self pitying, self-loathing me became. I have it good, very good, and I'm grateful, but sick of even the become hateful towards all humans in general. only because it seems so easy for people to get along and have empathy, empathy! only because I love and feel so many people too much I guess. I want you all from the pit of my burning nausea, thank for your letters and concern during the past years. I'm too much of an enemathic, moody person anymore and so remember, it's better to burn out than to [redacted] fade away. peace love, Empathy. Kurt Cobain

Frances and Courtney, I'll be at your altar.

SEATTLE POLICE DEPARTMENT MEMORANDUM

TO: Lieutenant. Al Gerdes
Homicide Unit Commander

DATE: 2/13/95

FROM: Sergeant. Don Cameron
Homicide Unit

SUBJECT: Kurt Cobain Suicide

As you are aware the suicide of Kurt Cobain has once again become a media issue. Allegations by a California private investigator, Tom Grant,have rekindled the concerns of Courtney Love over the preservation/security of the crime scene photos. Grant is alledging Courtney was responsible for her husbands death and we covered up the murder. Because of the rekindled media interest in her husbands suicide Courtney Love has gone to her attorney with concerns over the release of any of the crime scene photos. Courtneys attorney, Seth Lichtenstein called and asked if the photos could be destroyed to prevent any mistaken release .

I have advised Mr. Lichtenstein the 35 mm film had not been developed nor would it unless it became necessary. The polaroids are in evidence under lock and key and only three people are authorized to remove them from evidence. I am not sure Mr. Lichtenstein is satisfied with this but I explained with Grant still running amuck we would look foolish and certainly unprofessional if we destroyed the only photographs of the crime scene.Mr. Lichtenstein may go higher on the chain of command so I thought I had better let you know.

9 C/V [redacted] stated that S/Kurt Cobain and she had gotten into an argument over guns in the household. C/V [redacted] stated that she threw a glass of juice into S/Kurt's face and that S/Kurt pushed her in turn. C/V [redacted] pushed S/Kurt back, at which time S/Kurt pushed C/V [redacted] to the floor and began choking her, leaving a scratch. C/V [redacted] stated when R/O first arrived that S/Kurt had cut her forearm with a piece of glass, leaving a scratch which was approximately eight inches long. Later C/V [redacted] stated that she had self-inflicted the scratch to her forearm, when it became apparent that C/V Kurt was going to be arrested. R/O arrived to find scratch marks on C/V [redacted] and juice all over C/V Kurt, supporting their story. W/[redacted] witnessed the assault and confirms Courtney's original story. C/V Kurt was determined to be the primary aggressor and was arrested for DVPA assault. Sgt Monta responded to the scene and screened the arrest. C/V Kurt was transported to North Precinct and booked into King County Jail.

FILING DECLINE MEMORANDUM

Date: September 9, 1993

To: Court Unit/Major - C.I.D.

From: Trish Nellermoe
Law Department, Criminal Division
1414 Dexter Horton Building
Telephone 684-7757, Fax 684-4648

RE: Suspect Kurt Cobain

Date of Incident: June 4, 1993

I have declined the case for the following reasons:

X There is insufficient evidence of a crime to file this case.

_____ I need additional investigation of information (see comments below).

_____ While there is sufficient evidence of a crime, the facts of this case do not justify filing criminal charges.

_____ Other reasons (see comments below).

Comments:

After reviewing this case with Ted Inkley, Director of the Criminal Division, we have decided not to file charges. In order to prove an assault, the City must prove that the defendant intentionally assaulted the victim causing bodily injury. We must also prove the absence of self defense. We are unable to prove these elements for several reasons.

First, the victim, Ms. Cobain, will testify that nothing happened, contrary to the police report. Additionally, the 911 tape is probably not admissible because it neither describes an assault nor do her hearsay statements fall under an exception to the hearsay rule. Most notably, her statements do not fall under the excited utterance exception because her speech gives no indication that she was under the stress of a startling event such as an assault. She is not crying on the tape, nor is she yelling or speaking quickly. Also, she explained her injury to the officers on the scene as being self-inflicted. Thus, Ms. Cobain's testimony, her statements to the police and her statements to the 911 operator would not assist in proving an assault.

Second, the independent witness did not see the beginning of the altercation because it occurred in the kitchen. She only saw the end of the scuffle when it moved into the hallway. This, in conjunction with Ms. Cobain's testimony, makes it unlikely that we can disprove a self-defense claim.

Thus, we are unable to prove that an assault causing bodily injury occurred and that there was an absence of self defense. As such, the City declines to file charges.

DATE 04/08/94 TIME 1340 PLACE HOMICIDE OFFICE

STATEMENT OF: V. Levandowski #5326

On 04/08/94 I was working a one man marked patrol car in uniform, 1C4. At about 0856 Hrs. I was dispatched to 171 Lake Washington Blvd. E. to investigate a dead body. On arrival, I was contacted by [redacted] W/M [redacted] 44 of [redacted] I saw [redacted] work truck parked in the driveway of the house. [redacted] stated he had arrived at the house to do some electrical work on contract for Dictograph, the security company for the residence. [redacted] stated he had stepped onto a west facing deck at the second floor level of the garage, and had observed a dead male on the floor. [redacted] said he was see the body through the french doors, but that the doors were locked. [redacted] took me to the doors, and I observed through the door a W/M, with long blonde hair, laying on the floor, on his back. A shotgun was laying across the victim's body; the butt of the gun was between the victim's feet, and the muzzle was at about the mid-chest level of the victim. The victim appeared to be Kurt Cobain, who I knew to be the resident of the house, and who I had contacted in the recent past. Seattle Fire units arrived, and forced entry by breaking a pane in the french door. On entry, SFD announced the W/M as dead on arrival, and cleared the scene, leaving Engine Company 34 behind. SFD asked for I.D. from the nearby wallet, and I opened the wallet which was within a couple feet of the victim's body. Inside I found a Washington state driver's license in the name of Cobain, Kurt Donald DOB/022067. I had called for 1G, Sgt. Getchman enroute to the call, and Sgt. Getchman and A/Sgt. Fewel arrived. I used Getchman's polaroid to photograph the scene, while Fewel and Getchman used 35mm cameras to document the scene. Lt. Zimnisky arrived, and notified Homicide. Lt. Marberg stated his Detectives would respond. I maintained the scene until Homicide's arrival.

As I waited, Charles A. Pelly W/M 07/28/37 arrived and contacted me. Pelly is the president of Dictograph Security Systems, the company which had arranged for the electrical work to be done by [redacted] Pelly stated he had been informed of the event by [redacted] and had responded to see if he could be of assistance. Pelly stated he had recently spoken with Courtney Love, Cobain's wife, who was in Los Angeles, Love had stated that they were concerned that there might be unauthorized people staying in the house, and that Love had arranged for Tim Grant, a private investigator in Los Angeles to go to Seattle to check the house. Love stated that Grant had been given Pelly's name as a contact. Pelly said this conversation occurred on 04/06/94. Pelly stated he received a call on 04/07/94 at about 0245 from Grant, who stated that Grant was in the driveway of Cobain's house, and was going to check the interior of the house. At about 1400 hrs. that same day, Pelly and [redacted] surveyed the property to assess the wiring job that [redacted] was to perform. Pelly stated that neither he, nor [redacted] looked into the room over the garage. Later that day, at about 2140 hrs., Pelly received another call from Grant. Grant asked if Pelly had locked the window that Grant had used to get inside the house. Pelly told Grant he had not, as Pelly had not entered the house. Pelly stated he had no information on Grant other than his name, and a cellular phone number of (310)503-8780. Pelly stated he had never met Grant. I told Pelly that if he should hear from Grant, to have Grant call the Homicide office.

Once the detectives arrived, A/Sgt. Fewel and I checked the interior of the main house. Nothing appeared to be amiss, and there was nothing of note discovered.

Inside the scene, I had observed a cigar box lying next to the victim. Inside the box were syringes, a spoon, and other items of narcotics paraphernalia. On a nearby table was a paper placemat, with a hand-written note in red ink. The pen was stabbed into the note, holding it in place. The note was apparently written by Cobain to his wife and daughter, explaining why he had killed himself. I stayed on scene, until relieved by second watch patrol units, after Cobain's body had been removed by the M.E.

STATEMENT OF: V. Levandowski #5326 -continued-

I secured Cobain's main house, and responded to the Homicide office to prepare the major report and this statement.

As an addendum, I had been dispatched to the Cobain residence within the last month, to respond to a 911 hang-up call. On arrival I had contacted Courtney Love, Cobain's wife, who had stated she had called 911 because she was depressed. I saw no signs of injury to Love. I heard a small child's voice, and asked who was caring for the child. Love replied, "my husband-he's in the next room." I knocked on an adjoining room's door, and Kurt Cobain answered the door. Cobain had just recently recovered from a substance abuse induced coma in Rome. I asked Kurt what was going on, and he stated that there was a lot of stress in their relationship currently. Cobain stated that they should probably seek counseling, and I advised him to do that. There was no apparent need for police intervention, and with Love and Cobain's assurances that they'd work thing out, I left the residence. End of statement.

CRIME LABORATORY REPORT

Agency:	Seattle Police Department	Laboratory No.	394-1785
Officer:	Detective Stephen Kirkland
Suspect:	N/A	Agency No.	94-156500
Victim:	Cobain, Kurt Donald

I received for examination the following items:

8. One Remington, model M-11 Sportsman, 20 gauge, self-loading (semiautomatic) shotgun bearing serial number 1088925.
10. One fired Winchester, AA, 20 gauge, 2-1/2 inch shotshell.

Results of Examination:

The item 8 Remington shotgun was empty (not loaded) when received. The shotgun was successfully test fired and found to be functioning in a normal manner. The trigger pull was determined to be approximately 3.6 to 3.8 pounds.

The shotgun's two-round magazine, plus one round in the chamber, give it a total capacity of three rounds. A functional crossbolt safety is located to the rear of the trigger. This safety was in the "OFF" position when the shotgun was received.

The shotgun's barrel is 22 inches in length, and is fitted with a compensator at the muzzle for a total overall firearm length of 45-5/8 inches.

The item 10 fired shotshell was determined to have been fired in the item 8 Remington shotgun bearing serial number 1088925. This shotshell has markings indicating its original load consisted of 7/8 ounce of number 8 shot.

SEATTLE POLICE DEPARTMENT MEMORANDUM

TO Crimes Against Persons Section DATE May 2, 1994

Homicide & Assault Unit PAGE 1 OF1

SUBJECT Firearms Fingerprinting and Examination Problems

The Washington State Crime Laboratory Firearms Examiners will not examine or test fire any firearm previously processed for fingerprints with Rhodamine 6G. Rhodamine 6G is a chemical used in conjunction with the super glue or alternate light source process by fingerprint technicians.

Rhodamine 6G is a carcinogenic and the firearms examiners will not handle any weapons processed with Rhodamine 6G unless the weapon has been thoroughly cleaned. Unfortunately, the cleaning process is so severe it could alter the weapons characteristics and/or cause the examiner other problems which would render him unable to give an exact test result.

If you are going to process a weapon for fingerprints and then forward the weapon to the Washington State Crime Laboratory for firearms examination, advise the ID Unit and they will use chemicals in their process acceptable to the Washington State Crime Laboratory.

4-19-94 1400: P/C to Courtney Cobain. Advised her that the guns could be released and asked her if she wanted to pick them up or have them turned over to their attorney, Allen Draher. She advised that she would like Draher to pick them up, turn them over to KIRO televison, who in turn would turn them over to Mothers Against Violence, and they would turn them back over to the police. She advised that KIRO was planning on doing a story and that she had already done some of the voice portions of the segment. She was advised that the guns would be turned over to Allen Draher per her request and that how he chose to handle the release would be up to them. She was also advised that it was not a good idea to give her phone number out to cab companies ect, as the very thing she is trying to guard against will happen..

4-19-94 1415: P/C to Allen Draher and advised him that the guns would be released to him and that he could do with them as he saw fit.

4-19-94 1430 Hand carried 1:17 to Evidence authorizing the relase of the 3 guns and the ammunition to Allen Draher.

4-19-94 1455: Det. Kirkland made a return phone call to Diana Olig of KIRO. She was inquiring about the release of the guns. She states that the reason for the media being involved is two fold; Courtney wants the guns to be destroyed and the other is that Courtney wants the publicity.

4-15-94 2000: Received a phone call from Sgt. Cameron that a meeting had been set up with Courtney Cobain (Love) for 4-18-94 at 1400.

4-18-94 1030: P/C to Barth Investigations, 467-7025. A message was left for Ernie Barth to contact Detectives.

4-18-94 1325: Detectives Kirkland and Yoshida to 171 Lake Washington BLVD. E. [redacted] Met with Courtney Cobain. Courtney says that she knows that her husbands death is a suicide but she wants to know what his activities were in the days prior to his death. She states that Michael DeWitt, "Cali", told her that he last saw Kurt on 4-2-94 in the morning. DeWitt is also the person who left a letter on the stairs telling Kurt to take care of business because he had a wife and child. She says a psychiatrist told her that if she left the state and went to a place where Kurt could get treatment, he would follow. On the 28th of April Courtney says she went to Los Angeles and on the 30th of April, Kurt arrived. This is when Kurt checked himself into the treatment center. After she was told that Kurt had checked out she hired private investigators to try and locate him. She says that on Thursday she was arrested by Beverly Hills PD and then the next day she learned of Kurt's death. Courtney was told of the need for a handwriting sample from Kurt. She turned over a 3 small pages of note paper which contained the suicide note that Kurt had written in Rome. The heading on the note paper read the Excelsior Hotel Rome. A business card was given to Courtney with a receipt for the note written on the back. Their relationship was going through hard times because of Kurts frequent use of drugs and the fact that she tried to get him to stop. She said that six days after Kurt tried to take his life in Rome he again used drugs. This frustrated and angered her. Love was given business cards of both Detectives and 4-19-94 1330: Made a return phone call to Wendy, superintendent of Gray Top Taxi. She says that she received a phone call from a woman who identified herself as Courtney Cobain. She said that Courtney inquired about any Gray Top Cabs that went to their address. She advised that a driver by the name of Wodajo Abeye went to 171 Lake Washington Blvd E. on 4-2-94 at 0730 hrs. He picked up a person who he thought did not match with the residence. He drove around looking for a place to buy bullets, but was unable to find one. This male told the driver that he recently had a burglary and needed the bullets. At 0830 hrs the driver dropped the man off in the area of 145th and Aurora because he said he was hungry and wanted to get something to eat. The man's fare was $27.00. Wendy said that she was not sure about the female caller as she spoke in a very slurred manner as if she was on something or drunk. The female caller gave the phone numbers of [redacted] and [redacted] (new unlisted number for Courtney Cobain) for the superintendent to call with the information. Wendy was advised that this information would be passed onto Courtney if it was found that the request actually came from her. She also stated that she has received many requests for information from the press and at present time she does not plan on giving out any information.

4-19-94 1350: Made a return phone call to Allen Draher. He says that Courtney is interested in getting the guns back from the March incident. She wants to turn them over to Mothers Against Violence. 4/08/94 1615; Received a request from Sgt Cameron to contact Ben Klugman at 310 652 5670. He's an employee of the Tom Grant Company of Beverly Hills, CA. They are a private investigations company retained by Cobain's attorney. Apparently there has been some unauthorized use of Cobain's credit card and they are investigating the matter.

4/08/94 1630; Phone call to Klugman. He says Cobain walked away from a treatment program in LA on 4/2/84. He went to a ticket outlet and purchased a ticket on Delta Airlines flight #788 from LAX to Seattle for $478.00. This transaction took place 2007 hrs and the purchase was made with SeaFirst charge card. Sometime after 2007 hrs, Courtney Love found out that Cobain had walked away from the treatment center and cancelled the SeaFirst card. Someone tried to make a $150.00 draw cash draw at 2043 hrs but the stop had already been put on the card. Klugman says hes been speaking to Steve Sparks at SeaFirst Security (509 353 1549) but that Sparks was unable to supply any further information because they are having problems with their computers. I told Klugman that I would call him back on Monday, 4/11/94, to see what else he has learned.

4/11/94 0900; Received a message to call Tom Grant of the Tom Grant Company.

4/11/94 0915; Phone call to Grant. He said that SeaFirst is unable to decipher their records at this time but they are still trying to figure out what has been taking place. I told Grant that I would call him back at 1000 hrs this date.

4/11/94 1030; Phone call to Grant. He said that he would FAX the information he has to me and that we would then discuss it.

4/11/94 1041; Receive FAX from Grant. This is a chronological listing of the use of the SeaFirst card (#[redacted] starting on 4/1/94 and ending on 4/8/94.

4/11/94 1100; Phone call to Grant. Spoke to Grant and Klugman. Klugman explains that the times shown on the listing are inaccurate because the times shown are the times the attempts were noted in the computer, not when the actual attempted transactions took place. All of the transactions after the Delta purchase were attempted over the phone so SeaFirst has no idea where they occurred since the card was cancelled and to transactions actually took place. Klugman said he had talked to Courtney Love and she told him that they lent their credit cards to people frequently and she doesn't know whether or not Cobain gave the card to someone. Klugman added that SeaFirst Security told them that this is all

2 cont'd a large drying puddle of blood to the left of the victim and obvious trauma to his head. There is a Remington M-11 20 gauge shotgun between the victim's legs with the barrel pointed towards his head and his left hand wrapped around the barrel. The shotgun is inverted with the trigger and magazine trap door pointing up. The barrel end is just above his beltline. There is a spent 20 gauge shell casing on top of a brown corduroy jacket which is on top of a beige nylon shotgun case. These are just to the left of the victim and under one of the stainless steel garden trays. There are several cigarette butts on the floor and a 3/4 full can of Barqs root beer also on the floor in the area of the victim. Colbain's wallet was open and his driver's license showing. Off. Levandowski exposed the driver's license to verify identification of the victim. There was also $120.00 in cash on the floor to the right of the victim and a cigar box. This cigar box contained narcotics paraphernalia (syringes, burnt spoons, cotton, and small pieces of what looks like black tar). There is a brown paperbag containing 22 live 20 gauge shotgun shells. The box is marked that it contains 25 shells. The bag containing the shells is on the floor at the victim's left foot. On the floor to the victim's right in the same area as the cigar box is a hat, two towels, the $120.00 cash, the wallet, a pack of cigarettes, a lighter, and a pair of sunglasses. Inside the jacket pocket is a receipt for the purchase of the Remington 20 gauge shotgun serial #1088925. The purchase price was $308.37 and the receipt is dated 3-30-94. The purchaser was Dylan R. Carlson, 2210 NE 92nd #304, Seattle 98115, from Stan Baker Sports, 10000 Lake City Way NE, 522-4575. These items, the other items on the floor and the note were photographed using the 35mm and Polaroid cameras.

1105 hrs: Investigator Dave Delgado, Dr. Nick Hartshorne, and Dr. Donald Reay of the King County Medical Examiners Office arrive at the scene. Dr. Hartshorne will be conducting the initial examination of the victim. Dr. Hartshorne takes his photographs and then begins the on scene examination of the victim. The 2 cont'd the residence. Gary Smith was contracted by Charles Pelly of Dictograph Security Systems to do electrical work on the security system for the residence. Off. Levandowski says there was a dual response on Smith's 911 call. SFD broke the westside french door to gain access and visually determined that the victim was obviously dead. In breaking the door they spread glass fragments and several of these pieces struck the victim. One piece coming to light on the victim's face. Levandowski secured the area and waited for response by Patrol supervisors and Homicide. He has some knowledge of the victim and has been to the residence on a prior occasion. He is also aware that the victim was AWOL from a drug treatment center in Los Angeles and that his family had filed a missing persons report with SPD. The families fear was that the victim was suicidal and he had recently bought a shotgun. He also advised that Cobain's wife, Courtney Love, was in custody in California.

The residence is a large house on the westside of Lake Washington Blvd E. The property has a long driveway from the street to the house and detached garage. The detached garage is located on the southwest section of the property. Detectives note that there is a Volvo, WA Lic #175 EYA, parked in the double garage. All four tires of the vehicle are flat. Cobain is found in the 19'x23' greenhouse above the detached double garage. There are stairs on the westside leading to the french door entry and another set of french doors on the eastside which lead to a balcony. These doors are unlocked and closed but there is a stool with a box of gardening supplies on it in front of the door. There is a sink on the west wall and there are stainless steel planting trays on the north and south walls. One of the stainless trays contains a pile of dirt with bulbs in it. On top of this dirt pile is a note written in red ink and stuck into the dirt pile with a red pen. This is a suicide note directed to Courtney and Frances and signed Kurt Colbain. The victim is found on the floor lying on his back with his head to the west and feet to the east. There is

2 cont'd shotgun is removed from its location between the victim's legs and it is rendered safe by Det. Kirkland. There is one live shell in the chamber and another live shell in the magazine. These two shells and the spent expended shell account for the full box of 25. Dr. Hartshorne states that the damage to the interior of the mouth indicates that the shot was taken in the mouth. He states that the victim is cold, he is in the early stages of putrefaction, and there is evidence of skin slippage. Dr. Hartshorne also notes that the webbing of the left hand has the impression of the shotgun barrel in it. He notes that there are puncture marks on the inside of the left and right elbows. There does not seem to be any other evidence of trauma. The ambiant temperature at 1115 is 61 degrees F and the body core temperature is the same. Dr. Hartshorne examines the contents of the victim's pockets and notes that there is $63.00 in cash and a piece of note paper with "Seattle Guns, 145 & Lake City written on it. In the left front pant pocket there was an address book, miscellaneous papers, and another note paper which read "Remington 20 gauge, 2 3/4 shells or shorter, set up for light shot, 10888925. Also in the pants pocket was a copy of a Delta plane ticket, #788F, dated 4/1/94, seat 2F, in the name of Cobain/Kurt. The victim was noted as wearing a long sleeve shirt open, a T-shirt with two figures on it & "half Japanese" lettered on it, blue jeans, and a pair of black athletic shoes. The victim is then removed by the KCME for autopsy. All the contents of the victim's clothing will be taken by the KCME and all other items retained by Detectives. There was an open window on the residence and Patrol Officers checked the interior of the home and found that it had not been disturbed. Allen Draher, 386-5880, Cobain's attorney; and Lee Johnson, Cobain's agent, responded to the scene and met with Capt. Farrar. Draher was advised that the residence would be turned over to him. Detectives secured the scene at 1155. Patrol Officers remained at the scene to handle the crowd and to protect the residence until arrangements could be made by Draher.

4. 0408941145: DET DAVIS receives a telephone call from HARVEY OTTINGER, who lives at 3820 120th AVE S.E. in BELLEVUE, 643 2505. MR OTTINGER says that he works for CAREY LIMOUSINE SERVICE, as a driver, and in that capacity he picked up KURT COBAIN at his house "last week..I think Wednesday.." He said that he waited at the house for approximately one hour before COBAIN was ready. He was supposed to take COBAIN to SEA TAC AIRPORT for a flight to LOS ANGELES. He said that upon arrival at the airport, COBAIN told him that he had just purchased a "shotgun.. a couple of hours ago..." The reason he told OTTINGER this was that he had a box of shotgun shells with him (COBAIN) and couldn't take them on the airplane with him and offered them to OTTINGER. He took them and advised that he still had them if they were needed by police. (EMD 3057)

INCIDENT DESCRIPTION:

On 4-8-94 at approximately 0845 hours the body of Kurt Donald Cobain was found in the garage loft of the residence at 171-Lake Washington Blvd. East. Cobain (the lead singer for the rock group Nirvana) was observed lying on the floor of the loft with a shotgun on his chest by electricians working on the property. The electricians summoned police and fire who forced entry into the loft.

Cobain suffered a single GSW to the head. The shotgun had been placed in Cobains mouth and discharged. There were marks on Cobains hands consistant with the firing of this weapon. Cobain has been dead for several days.

Cobain has been positively identified through fingerprints.

The 20 ga. shotgun found on Cobains chest has been traced to a gun shop in the North End and sale to Cobain and a friend has been confirmed.

A lengthy suicide note was found in the loft near the body.

At this point in the investigation it appears the fatal wound to Cobain is self-inflicted.

The residence at 171-Lake Washington Blvd. East is owned by Kurt Cobain and his wife Courtney who is enroute to Seattle from Calif.

Captain Larry Farrar responded to the crime scene.
